Why Mommy is a Democrat is a children's book written and self-published by Jeremy Zilber that teaches children about the Democratic Party of the United States of America. The main characters include the "mommy" squirrel, and two youth squirrels. Each page explains a different Democratic principle by relating it to a motherly action. Each principle is accompanied by a colorful illustration of the three characters, always smiling. In the background, humans are used to illustrate the opposite concept (demonstrating the negative effects of Republican policies). These background illustrations are smaller and darker, and done in such a way that most children wouldn't interpret them as attacks on Republicans. The book has been featured in an episode of The Daily Show. Zilber has gone on to write subsequent children's books, "Why Daddy is a Democrat" and "Mama voted for Obama."

Lots of comments on the net. I like this one the best. Since it comes from an elected official. I especially like the last comment.

"Why Mommy is a Democrat is a warm and wonderful story of commitment to family and community. You'll want to share this book with your children for the same reason, you're a Democrat -- because you care."

Mayor Michael B. Coleman, Columbus, OH

"Now, some Mamas voted for a man named John; And some Mamas voted for a mastodon."

This is from a page in "Mamas voted for Obama" by Jeremy Zilber

A huge elephant with a likeness of Senator John McCain holding on to its tail.

The Elephant is the symbol of the Republican Party as we all know. But the Jackass is the symbol of the Democratic Party.
